

Dr. Ronald Dains is an Associate Professor of Military and Security Studies in the Air Command and Staff College's Department of International Security. He holds a Ph.D. and M.A. in Political Science from the University of Alabama, an MS and BS in Aeronautical Science from Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, and two Associate Degrees from the Community College of the Air Force. Dr. Dains has presented ACSC core courses in International Security, War Theory, Warfare Studies, Regional and Cultural Studies, and Joint Air Campaign Planning along with elective courses in US Civil-Military Relations and the History of Logistics. He also served as Chair of the Department of International Security from 2015-2020. He is presently editing a proposal for a book on Civil-Military Relations, along with researching material for series of articles on followership. Ron served at the US Air Force Academy from 1998-2001 as instructor of Military Strategic Studies, Cadet Wing Newspaper advisor, Squadron Professional Ethics Advisor, and Assistant Editor for USAFA's journal AIRMAN-SCHOLAR. Dr. Dains is a retired Aircraft / Munitions Maintenance Officer supporting B-1, B-52, B-2, F-15E, E-3C (AWACS), and CALCM platforms. He was a USAF enlisted Electro-Environmental Technician maintaining H-1F & N, HH-3, HH-53, H-60, and C-130 airframes and was an enlisted PME instructor at the Airman Leadership School and Noncommissioned Officer Academy levels. Ron also served in the US Navy as an Aviation Electrician's Mate and SH-3 Search and Rescue Swimmer / Aircrewman. Following retirement from the USAF he joined the Government Accountability Office as a Defense Analyst in the Acquisition and Sourcing Management Team. Dr. Dains returned to ACSC as a civilian faculty member in 2009.