

AWC ARCS

MAXWELL AFB 1-12 JUNE 2026

Air War College Air Reserve Component Seminar (AWC ARCS) is a two-week in-residence experience with fellow Guard and Reserve students to work through a section of the distance learning (DL) AWC curriculum via small group discussions, guest lectures, workshops, and exercises facilitated by Air University's academic and military faculty. Upon completion of AWC ARCS, students will be approximately 65% complete with their AWC DL.

RE: AWC DISTANCE LEARNING, DO YOU WISH YOU COULD:

- Do more than click-through slides and take progress checks?
- Practice critical and creative thinking in self-directed groups with your peers?
- Meet and network with other Lt Cols at the same point in their PME journey?

AWC ARCS DESCRIPTION

AWC ARCS students will attend enrichment lectures, workshops, in-person seminar discussions to complete the Global Security AWC DL facilitated NSP 850A course and one Focused Studies Facilitated Course. Upon completion of AWC ARCS, students will be approximately 65% complete with their AWC DL.

MANDATORY PREREQUISITES

Students must be enrolled in AWC DL and complete the courses listed below before attending AWC ARCS. Please note that courses ending in "A" are facilitated and are offered monthly, requiring advanced registration. ### Benefits

- Ability to focus exclusively on coursework
- Access to Air University experts
- Networking with peers
- Hear directly from Reserve Component Senior Leaders
- Real-time discussions/collaboration
- Informative presentations on current and relevant topics

AWC ARCS is for the student that...

- demonstrates potential for leadership in the rank of Lieutenant Colonel
- would enjoy AWC in-residence but just can't make the year-long PCS make sense right now
- wants more from the online curriculum
- is prepared to accomplish a significant amount of coursework during the two weeks and can work well in a group setting

"Almost without exception, I found the AWC lectures to be some of the highest quality professional learning I have received."

HOW TO APPLY

RESERVE: You must apply via the RSSB through MyVector.

GUARD: Due to the increased demand for participation in ARCS, we are no longer accepting applicants on a first come first serve basis. The following outlines the application and selection process for 2026. To apply for the Air Reserve Component Seminar (ARCS), follow these steps:

1. Obtain Endorsement: A Wing Commander or equivalent must sign an endorsement letter ranking all ARCS applicant as #x out of y candidates from their unit. Use the template provided on ARCS webpage. Members on stat tours: please reach out to your director with your intent to apply as your endorsement letter will be signed by the ANGRC/CC. There is also a ranking guidance MFR for commanders.
  - a. The rankings will be used to facilitate a merit-based selection process, aligning with the Air Force Global College's Agile ACSC selection strategy
  - b. Applicants not selected will be placed on a waitlist based on their rankings, with higher-ranked candidates prioritized
2. Apply online: Each applicant must complete the online application form (ARCS webpage) where they will upload their endorsement letter. (requires CAC login)
