

DEPARTMENT OF THE AIR FORCE SQUADRON OFFICER SCHOOL (AETC)

25 January 2022

Dear Future SOS Student

Welcome to the beginning of your Squadron Officer School (SOS) experience! SOS has a long heritage, dating back to the formative years of the Air Force. Founded in 1950 by Colonel Russell Ritchey, SOS was designed as a leadership development center for junior officers that blended graduate-level instruction with thrilling experiential activities to strengthen leadership, team building, and critical-thinking skills. Today's SOS goes farther. We offer relevant, cutting-edge leadership instruction and experiential applications that you'll find both challenging and rewarding.

SOS employs the LEAD to Prevail curriculum. LEAD - Leadership Experience and Attribute Development executes across three phases. The first phase challenges you to know yourself and your team. You will conduct deep introspection to grasp who you are and chart a course to become a better version of yourself. The second phase takes an in-depth look at solving problems. You'll incorporate diverse perspectives to address a range of complex and complicated challenges through a dependable, repeatable process. The third phase will lead you through air and space power doctrine, international relations, and joint operations. During your capstone exercise, you'll use the lessons learned in the first two phases and apply them to the execution of air and space power in a joint environment.

Now, I have a question for you as you prepare mentally, physically, socially, and spiritually. Are you ready to think, communicate, cooperate, and above all – be Better Together? As a member of our nation's armed service, you will work in concert with other elements of national power and by, with, and through partners and allies to accomplish our mission. This will hold true in your experience here at SOS and in the decades that follow your graduation.

See you soon #SOS22C,

S-6070 Strategic Design Course Review

The purpose of this time is to reflect and ensure students understand the ways lessons taught in the Leadership Department impacted their work in the Strategic Design Department, and how those lessons carry over to the Joint Warfare Department.

Joint Warfare Course Description

J-6000 Intro to Joint Warfare

The Joint Warfare Curriculum begins with an introduction to Joint Warfare. This lesson outlines the intent, purpose, and objectives of the curriculum. It also assigns and outlines the Joint Warfare presentation that students give at the end of these lessons.

J-6010 Strategic Competition

This lesson provides students with a baseline understanding of Strategic Competition. The US military is shifting away from the idea of continuous wars against insurgents and instead must focus on competition between great powers, specifically China and Russia. This lesson is meant as an overview that frames the remainder of the Joint Warfare curriculum.

J-6020 Instruments of Power and National Security

In this lesson, students learn the instruments of power (IOP); National Security Strategy (NSS) and the role of the National Security Council (NSC); National Defense Strategy (NDS); role the military plays in supporting all IOPs, especially in context to strategic competition.

J-6100 Intro to Joint Operations/Joint Force Employment

This lesson provides students with an understanding of how the DoD organizes military forces to approach actions as an instrument of power across a full range of military operations, establish unity of command in joint operations globally and within a theater of operations; and demonstrate application of joint force employment within given scenarios/case studies.

J-6110 Joint Planning Process

This lesson will build upon understanding of the Joint Forces Structure and reinforce the Joint Planning Process (JPP) with a focus on Orders Production. This lesson will help lay the foundation necessary to understand roles within the Joint All-Domain Operations Construct and help captains understand how to contextualize what their teams do in support of Operational Priorities.

J-6200 Introduction to Doctrine

In this lesson, student learn the difference between attrition, annihilation, strategies of war and effects-based approach to operations (EBAO); understand what doctrine is, how it is developed, and understand how doctrine can be applied to modern scenarios to provide an effective strategy to engage a competitor or adversary.

J-6200S Spacepower Doctrine Suite (Space Gray Rhinos students)

As part of the United States Space Force (USSF) track within SOS, USSF students split off from their core flights and complete this lesson instead of the Airpower Doctrine Suite lesson. Students will view doctrine from the USSF perspective, looking at how the space domain has evolved, several theories that could guide operations, and doctrine will drive USSF operations. The lesson is in line with the airpower version the USAF students receive.

J-6210 Air Fundamentals:

This purpose of this lesson is for students to understand how airpower doctrine has evolved through time and some of the major theorist involved, establish a fundamental understanding of the major doctrinal concepts of airpower, and understand how airpower fits into joint operations and enables effective operations.

J-6220 Space Fundamentals

This lesson provides students with basic knowledge and foundational tools to understand the space domain and advocate for it in the joint environment. They will look at the basics of the domain, primary capabilities, and threats to our dominance in space.

J-6230 Cyberspace Fundamentals

The purpose of this lesson is to provide students with a basic understanding of the Cyberspace domain and enhance students' ability to advocate for cyberspace across all and mission partners to include joint and interagency.

J-6240 Information Warfare Fundamentals

The purpose of this lesson is for students to gain an understanding of how our principal adversaries and the United States government view information as a crucial component of modern warfare. This lesson is meant to introduce students to IW fundamentals and inspire them to think critically about the information they receive on a daily basis and be conscience about the messages we are sending to the international community.

J-6250 Land and Maritime Fundamentals

The purposes of this lesson are to understand how sister services are organized, establish a fundamental understanding of the major doctrinal concepts of land and sea power, and understand how land and sea power fit into joint operations and enables effective operations.

J-6300 Joint All-Domain Operations

This lesson provides students with an understanding of the DOD's vision for Joint All-Domain Operations (JADO) and the Joint All Domain Command and Control (JADC2) effort to ultimately create an advantage over our adversaries.

J-6310 Nature of Conflict in the 21st Century

This lesson will help students understand what national interests are and attempt to consider national interests from our competitors' perspective. This should help students understand why Russia and China do what they do in order to compete with them more effectively on an international level.

United States Space Force at Squadron Officer School

The welcome meeting for the Space Gray Rhinos is on Day 1, 1500-1600 Central Time. All Guardians must attend.

Space Gray Rhinos Core – All Guardians

All Guardians enrolled in SOS will take part in the core Space Gray Rhinos program. Given the standup of the United States Space Force (USSF), Squadron Officer School (SOS) has created the Space Gray Rhinos track for USSF officers. SOS is a great place for space officers to learn, think, and theorize about challenges in space. The students will not focus on tactical operations. Instead, they will focus on space as it strategically applies across the instrument of power, particularly in this era of Strategic Competition.

The core portion of the Space Gray Rhinos includes space-specific lessons:

- Spacepower Theory
- Spacepower Doctrine
- Space Law
- Principles of Mission Command

Project Nova – Competitively Selected

As part of the Space Gray Rhinos program, Guardians (officer, space civilians, all functional areas) and Airman will have the opportunity to apply to work with a small team and mentor where they recognize and seek out to strategically counter looming threats in line with the CSO Planning guidance focus areas. Everyone who is selected will have the opportunity and gain experience of presenting their ideas to Space Force senior leaders and will receive an additional bullet on their training report annotating that they worked on a strategic issue in support of our service. Project Nova is a learning atmosphere where the SOS Guardian Staff and an O-6 panel serve as coaches through vector checks for their excellent intellectual efforts concerning our space domain.

More information will be given at the welcome meeting for the Space Gray Rhinos on Day 1.

Semper Supra!

Squadron Officer School Electives

As an SOS student you will participate in one of three types of electives during the five-week course.

- Blocked/ Series electives
- Think Tank
- Air University Advance Research (AUAR) elective

SOS Electives

SOS electives are sessions taught by SOS faculty on a variety of subject. Upon the start of SOS, students will have the opportunity to select from a list of electives they would like to participate in during the five-week course.

Project Nova

As mentioned above, this project is competitively selected for Guardians (officer, space civilians, all functional areas) and Airman.

Think Tank

Think Tank is an opportunity for a select group of students to tackle a major issue and present creative solutions to senior leaders. It is physically, mentally, and emotionally challenging and students are expected to work well beyond the SOS curriculum. The rewards for both the students and the USAF, however, can be enormous. Team members receive intensive coaching on design principles adapted from the best practices in industry, academia, and militaries from across the world. What you will learn, and practice are directly applicable to the strategic thinking skills that are highly valuable to leaders at all levels. In the past, this approach has generated innovative ideas at all levels of the Air Force. On Welcome Day is when students will receive the 22C topic.

Air University Advance Research (AUAR)

The Air University (AU) Advanced Research Elective is an opportunity for a selective group of students to conduct independent research on topics of strategic concern. This is a five-week elective requiring approximately 20-40 hours beyond SOS curriculum. Selected students are assigned mentor(s) who guide research efforts and define deliverables. Student researchers receive a bullet on their AF 475 Training Report. Student benefits include advanced study on exciting topics, networking with communities of interest throughout the research experience, and opportunity to shape the Air Force's and Space Force's future.

Current AUAR Topics

AF Maker:

Get your creative thinking cap on and help make progress on a current, relevant Air Force problem. Innovate to find solution(s). Investigate applications for additive manufacturing of rapid prototypes and potentially deployable solutions for various AF customer challenges. Additionally, if you have access to a 3D printer or design software, this elective is intended to connect with the growing community of AF makers under the mentorship of AFWERX SPARK Cell Lead, as well as a 3D printing nerd straddling the guard & civilian communities. Don't know how to design and/or 3D print? We'll do our best to connect you to resources to take your ideas to print!

Advanced Battle Management System:

In a data dependent world, victory belongs to the side with decision superiority—the ability to sense and make sense of a complex and adaptive environment faster and better than the adversary. In coordination with the ABMS program team and AU SMEs, students will apply their experience and critical thinking skills to develop research-based solutions for the problems encountered in achieving a decision advantage in strategic competition. Students will explore how command and control is changing and what new tools, data, and TTPs will be needed to ensure decision advantage for the next conflict.

Barrier Analysis Working Group Collaborative:

In coordination with the Department of the Air Force's Barrier Analysis Working Group (DAFBAWG), Air Command and Staff College, and Air War College, students will leverage their experiences and expertise to help drive positive change across the Air Force through research aligned with current Lines of Effort provided by the BAWG Teams. Students will have access to subject matter experts and mentors from across AU and from the BAWG Teams: Women's Initiative Team (WIT), Black/African American Employment Strategy Team (BEST), Pacific Islander and Asian American Community Team (PACT), Hispanic Employment Analysis Team (HEAT), LGBTQ Initiative Team (LIT), Disability Team (DT), and Senior Leader Advancement Team (SLAT).

Students may work individually or in teams. Students have the option to bring their own topic or work on a current Line of Effort within a BAWG. Potential topic areas include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Specialized healthcare programs (WIT/LIT)
- Facial Hair Policy Changes (HEAT/BEST)
- Racial Injustice (ALL perspectives requested)
- Overcome Language Barriers (HEAT)
- Persons with Targeted Disabilities and Access to Professional Development Programs
- Retention In Career Fields/Demographics (HEAT/BEST/WIT)
- LGBTQ Medical Policies, Procedures and Practices (LIT)
- Family Matters (LIT/WIT)

ISR Considerations for US National Security:

In coordination with the ISR Chair at the LeMay Center for Doctrine, and the Air War College/Air Command and Staff College ISR Research Task Force, students will apply experience and critical thinking skills to research specific problems submitted by senior leaders and subject matter experts across the USAF ISR enterprise. Advisors will be made available to guide student efforts. For this iteration of the program, students will submit findings focused on China or Russia as a strategic competitor. If there are other topics of interest that students desire to focus on, these will be approved by the Next Gen ISR facilitators. Efforts will be scoped to a specific operational-level problem and the resulting strategic implications (for example, China's aggressive posturing for a takeover of Taiwan or a Russian incursion of a Baltic nation). Potential topics centered on an operational crisis will include:

- USAF and Joint Application of ISR
- The status of regional security partnerships
- Chinese or Russian military capabilities vs. regional US/partner military capabilities
- Adversary and friendly force information warfare/operations
- Competitor and/or US use of non-kinetic or cyber effects
- And many more potential avenues of research on China, Russia, North Korea, Iran, etc!

Mobility Air Forces (MAF) Operation in Contested, Degraded and Operationally limited (CDO) Environments:

In coordination with the MAF Faculty Chair at Air War College, students will apply their experience and critical thinking skills to develop research-based solutions for the problems encountered in sustaining and operating mobility forces in contested environments. Subject matter experts from across Air University serve as senior mentors who will guide research and connect student researchers to stakeholders within the larger Mobility Forces community, particularly Air Mobility Command and U.S. Transportation Command.

Technology Integration:

In support of CSAF Brown's Strategic Approach "Accelerate Change or Lose" (August 2020) and the supporting action orders: A) Airmen, B) Bureaucracy, C) Competition, and D) Design Implementation; Integrating Technologies is a topic geared towards exploration, discovery and collaboration of ways units can integrate technology in the short term for long term success. No experience or expertise is required. All that is asked is a willingness to partner with other students for a collaborative effort researching one of the topics below:

- Advanced Visualization: Virtual Reality/Augmented Reality
- Implementing Change
- Artificial Intelligence/ Artificial General Intelligence
- Blockchain Technology
- Learning/Training Technologies
- Communication/Collaboration
- Resource Optimization

Social Media:

Social Media seeks passionate storytellers to develop a social media strategy for the organization, preparing them to be the champions of their units upon their return. Students will work as a team to generate content that highlights their student experience, while also examining resources and constraints unique to a military organization. In short, AUAR-SM is a no-fail strategic communication mission that just happens to be a ton of fun.

End product will be the SOS 22A grad video, along with a presentation to the SOS Commandant to discuss their social media strategy, and the victories and challenges they experienced.
